■ The generic competencies and program/mission objectives are intended to serve as the framework for joint discussions between the rater and ratee at the 3 types of meetings throughout the year, which are as follows: 1) Performance planning meeting; 2) Ongoing review meetings; and 3) Annual Proficiency Review Meeting. The performance planning session should result in a common understanding of the expectations for individual performance.

- Throughout the performance cycle, the rater and ratee should meet frequently to conduct "ongoing reviews," to discuss the ratee's performance to date. At a minimum, at least one ongoing review will be conducted within the sixth or seventh month of the performance cycle.
- Employees who change positions, on a permanent basis, should repeat the performance planning meeting to establish new objectives and determine which competencies apply. Employees on extended details may also modify their plans, as appropriate.
- At the end of the review year, the rater and ratee will meet to discuss the ratee's performance and achievements throughout the year. The Annual Proficiency Rating is determined by the rater as part of the final review. The attached optional worksheet may be utilized by the ratee in preparation for this joint discussion. See the attached worksheet for further instructions.
- Deficiencies in performance should be recognized and their causes determined as soon as they become evident. An Employee Proficiency Plan (EPP) should be issued where deficiencies continue. An Unacceptable proficiency rating may not be given to the ratee prior to the ratee having completed the EPP, which at a minimum must be 60 days.
- M No supplemental or departure ratings are required. An employee is presumed successful unless an EPP exists.
- Evaluation for Newly Appointed Managers and Supervisors: An employee serving a probationary period as a newly appointed manager or supervisor must be reviewed twice during the probationary period on the applicable Management and Supervisory Competencies: by the end of the 6th month and by the end of the 11th month after entering the position. If the 6th month or 11th month review leads to a negative recommendation (regarding retention in the supervisory position), the supervisor should contact a Labor & Employee Relations Specialist for guidance. (Customs Form 270 is now obsolete.)

OPTIONAL SELF ASSESSMENT and DEVELOPMENT PLAN

PURPOSE:

The purpose of the Optional Self Assessment and Development form is to encourage performance related communication between employees and supervisors, and to assist employees in self development efforts. At the employee's option, this form may be used to help the employee gain insight into his/her strengths and to identify areas for self-improvement and development.

WHEN TO USE:

This plan may be prepared in advance for use at any stage of the performance cycle: at the beginning of the year to prepare for the performance planning discussion, at any ongoing reviews, and/or at the end of the year in preparation for the annual proficiency review meeting. The plan remains the sole possession of the employee and should not appear in any official agency files.

HOW TO USE:

This plan is designed to facilitate discussion by providing headings under which an employee may organize his/her thoughts in advance of discussions with supervisors. One heading allows the employee to organize thoughts relative to strengths and accomplishments. Another provides for listing the areas that could be targeted for further improvement or development. The focus should be on the development of an individual's skills relative to their current position, rather than skill development for promotion purposes.

SUPERVISORY RESPONSIBILITIES:

The plan is a tool to help management assist the employee in his/her self development. Supervisors will try to accommodate the employee through informal methods or through referral to training offices.
